No Right – Oran Park Drive

Signage has been erected on the exit to Oran Park Drive that says No Right Turn during peak times. Buses are exempted from this as they are on route.

It is hoped by erecting this sign that the flow of traffic will move quicker as cars will not have to merge when leaving the car park. If this does not improve the flow of traffic in peak periods the sign will be removed.

For those cars that would normally make a right hand turn you are asked to have a little patience and drive down to the U Turn bay near the winery or to turn into Forestgrove Drive do a U Turn at the round about. The signage that says Bus Parking behind the St Justin’s staff park will be removed so that there are additional parking spaces for teachers.

The decision to put the No Right turn is tied to the future entrance and exit. It was always intended that once the lights are erected at Forestgrove Drive and Oran Park Drive in the future that there would only be left hand in and left hand out of the school entrance. In the future there will be an alternate entrance and exit to the north of the property into the new housing estate of Catherine Park.
